Steps to Finding Quality Child Care

Quality child care is a high priority for any parent who intends on having their child in someone else’s care. It can be an emotional and difficult process, especially for parents of children with disabilities. However, using the following guidelines on finding quality child care should help streamline the process and give you confidence that you are making a good choice that meets your family’s needs and is in the best interest of your child.

1. Start by thinking about what is important to you in a child care placement. Consider your child’s interests, strengths, and needs. Write a list. This will help you focus on what your priorities will be in choosing a provider.

2. Know what the logistics are. For example, you need care Monday- Friday from 7a-4:30p near your home. How much can you afford? Is it on a bus-line? When do you need care to begin? Is this for more than one child?

3. Consider what type of environment you prefer. This will likely match with what you are looking for in a provider. In other words, are you more interested in a Family Child Care environment or will a Center-based environment more closely meet your family’s needs.

4. Call 4Cs (271-9181) or Satellite (275-6740), both can provide you with a list of providers in the area you choose.

5. Look through the list and eliminate providers based on location, hours they are available, not enough experience, etc.

6. Call ALL of the remaining providers on your list. Even if you think you found the right person after a couple of calls, keep looking. You may not be as impressed later in the process.

7. Remember, the provider will be working for you. Interview them as if you were hiring them for any other job, none of which are as important as caring for your child in your absence. (See interview questions for specific ideas on what to ask.)

8. Follow your gut feeling. If you like talking to them and they can meet your family’s needs, ask to set up a time to observe the program and ask more questions. Most likely, they will ask you to come toward the end of the day after most children have left. Consider showing up early so you can watch how the provider interacts with the children.

9. Do a second interview! Ask questions until you are satisfied! Write down the answers. Be ready to talk about your child. A provider may be able to make accommodations based on the information you gave or they may have a valid reason for not being able to meet the needs of your child.

10. Go home and think about it. If there are things you are unsure of, is it a deal breaker? Are you still happy with the potential provider’s answers the next day? Talk to friends and family to get their feedback.

11. Call the provider and let them know if you would like to reserve a spot or ask any new questions that have come up.
